Consequences for Dress Code Violations

- Step 1 – The student will be given a loaner shirt or pant to wear the rest of the day. Non-uniform clothing will be kept in the office to be picked up at the end of the day.
- Step 2 – If loaner items are not available or if the student refuses to change into the provided loaner clothing, the parent will be called to bring uniform clothing or pick up the student. The student will wait in the Responsibility Room until the parent arrives. If a parent is not available, the student will work in the Responsibility Room for the remainder of the day.
- Step 3 - Students who commit three or more dress code violations will be assigned to in-school suspension.
- Step 4 – Blatant and continued dress code violations will result in an out-of-school suspension.

All Students

- All students, including students who have earned free dress, must also follow the TUSD Dress Code Guidelines as outlined in the TUSD Student Rights and Responsibilities Handbook (in PDF).
- Random uniform checks will be done periodically by the administration. Repeated uniform violations may result in assignment of after-school detention.
- The Mansfeld Administration reserves the right to require additional dress code restrictions for any student as needed to maintain a safe and orderly campus.
